Zoning Still Controversial In the County

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Zoning is now widespread in Ulster County, but still controversial. In this article, The Daily Freeman gives an overall review of the status of zoning in the area.)

By WADE BURKHART

Zoning, the codified setting of the land use pattern of a community, has become the norm in Ulster County's municipalities rather than the exception, but it still has the capacity to arouse strong feelings in people.

Zoning's opponents claim zoning takes away an individual's freedom to do what he wants with his land, stifles the growth, and can cause land values to go down. Proponents of zoning counter that while some freedom is lost, the freedom from having one's property ruined by a neighbor's misuse of his land is gained; that New Paltz, long protected by zoning, is the fastest growing town in the county; and that protection by zoning causes overall land values to rise, though some individual parcels might decline in value.

Though zoning is widespread in Ulster County, and increasing, the three most populous towns in the county are at present unprotected by zoning ordinances. The Towns of Ulster, Saugerties, and Wawarsing have no zoning, though plans are being worked on in all of them.

The Town of Ulster has been wrestling with the zoning problem for more than 15 years, but no zoning ordinance has resulted. As a consequence, Ulster has become what Town Supervisor Carmine Sabino calls a "conglomerate", a township with single-family homes, trailers, businesses, industrial facilities and commercial operations scattered about in no particular order with its booming strip, Ulster Shop City, located on an antiquated and overloaded road.

A zoning commission has delivered a report and a zoning map, but the town board has taken no action, and is not expected to. A master plan for the township will be presented for public hearing this month. The town does have subdivision regulations, a local law on site development, a trailer ordinance and business regulations, including such things as road setbacks, and has adopted the New York State Building Code.

It is the theory of Ulster County Planning Director Herbert Hekler that municipalities adopt zoning only when provoked by a crisis. It is difficult to imagine what other crisis could befall the Town of Ulster, since it has weathered most of the possibilities. It already has business enterprises and trailers alongside single-family residences, big industry, and a booming commercial strip, and these standard crises have all been met.

Special

Sabino said he was hopeful of getting some sort of land use controls for the town, but observing the town's present land use pattern he said, "It's quite a job to zone."

He said the town seemed to be growing, and growing very well without zoning. "You'd be surprised how many people are happy with things the way they are," he said.

Saugerties and Wawarsing are somewhat different matters. Progress is being made in both towns, with zoning commissions hard at work. Wawarsing Zoning Commission Chairman William Eckert said his commission hoped to get the final proposed zoning ordinance to the town board in about a month, with public hearings to follow.

In Saugerties, Town Justice Calvin H. Cobb, the chairman of that town's zoning commission, said his group had already examined the written language of the ordinance suggested by a planning firm and was now working on the zoning map, a vital part of any zoning ordinance. Cobb saw some problems with the map suggested by the planning firm; the commercial zone being too small, leaving a lot of non-conforming commercial uses and no room for growth.

Gardiner, Olive, and Plattekill are also working on zoning ordinances. Gardiner, presently holding the line with a stop-gap zoning ordinance, expects to have a public hearing on the zoning plan this month. Plattekill recently had a public hearing on its master plan, and zoning is a town goal for 1973. Olive adopted an interim zoning ordinance in September 1972, and has a commission working on a permanent ordinance.

Olive furnishes a fine example of Hekler's crisis theory of zoning. According to Olive Town Supervisor James Glemming, the main impetus for the town's move to zoning was from a group of Ridge Road residents threatened with an auto body shop in their neighborhood. They called out for zoning, and the town is moving on it.

The problem of trailers is one still to be solved. The range of reaction to the trailer problem is from no regulation to New Paltz' no trailers at all "except as permitted by the planning board for agricultural laborers as part of a working farm."

Housing is becoming out of reach for some families, and trailers are an attractive alternative to a family looking for a place of its own. However, homeowners often do not like the way trailers look, or the way they are taxed. Trailers actually depreciate rather appreciate in value, something seldom true of a house.

One form of zoning which is conducted on the county rather than the local level is the creation of agricultural districts. One such district has been created in the Milton area, one is in the process of being created in the Clintondale area, and a third is being considered for the Marlboro hamlet area. These areas are all fine orchard producers, deemed worthy of protection from residential development.

Last U. S. Korean War Prisoner Freed

Downey to See Mother

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — John T. Downey, the last American prisoner of the Korean War, was freed from China today and flew home to see his seriously ill mother in Connecticut.

Peking let the CIA operative go after an appeal from President Nixon that he be allowed to join his 75-year-old mother, Mary Downey of New Britain. His release had been expected as a result of the visits to Peking by Nixon and Henry A. Kissinger but not until later this year. The other two Americans known to be held in China, Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith and Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn, are scheduled to be freed on Thursday. Downey told Red Cross representatives that he was in the same cell block with them and both appeared to be in "excellent spirits and health."

Both Smith and Flynn were shot down on missions in Vietnam when they strayed over China. Downey, who has spent nearly 21 of his 42 years in Chinese prisons, looked pale but smiled continuously when he arrived at Clark Air Base from Hong Kong. He told newsmen he was "fine."

At Clark he found his brother William, a New York attorney, who arrived several hours earlier.

"I just want to say how grateful I am for being released," Downey told newsmen. "And I appreciate the Chinese government letting me go at this time, and President Nixon for his efforts on my behalf, and Dr. Kissinger. I'm very pleased to be out; and at the same time, I'm very anxious to get home and see my mother."

William Downey said a doctor had examined his brother on the flight from Hong Kong and "he checks out fine on a preliminary examination. He certainly feels and looks good."

The two brothers took off in a special C141 medical evacuation transport at 1:42 a.m. EST for Elmendorf Air Base in Alaska. From there, they were to fly to either Hartford, Conn., or Westover Air Base in Massachusetts.

Downey's mother, who visited him a number of times in Peking, suffered a stroke last Wednesday. She regained consciousness Sunday, but a spokesman at New Britain General Hospital said her condition still was critical.

Peking's Hsinhua news agency made a brief announcement of Downey's release shortly after he arrived in Hong Kong: "Considering that Downey confessed his crime and his behavior was not bad while serving his term, China's organs of dictatorship decided to grant him leniency and release him immediately." There was no reference to Downey's mother or President Nixon's request.

A Red Cross official, Eugene D. Guy, crossed the border at Hong Kong to greet Downey and escort him across the Lo Wu Bridge. Guy handed the Chinese a receipt that said the American people were most appreciative of China's "humanitarian action" in freeing Downey.

A British medical officer who accompanied the reception team said Downey "talked normally and, although he was somewhat quiet, he seemed quite happy," it said.

Downey told them he had learned three days ago from the Chinese of his release.

"I feel very fit," he said.

North Vietnam submits list of 107 American POWs to be released on Wednesday. Meanwhile, the U.S. again suspends withdrawal of American troops to insure release of all 287 POWs being held by the Reds. Story on page 14.

James E. Bowling of St. Louis, Mo., a Red Cross representative who accompanied Downey to the Philippines, said he was "very steady and very well composed" when they met in Hong Kong, his handshake was firm and he walked briskly.

"He also had a sharp mind," said Bowling.

The flight was Downey's first aboard a jet plane, and Bowling said he asked questions about it. Bowling said Downey did not inquire about Fecteau or discuss his prison life except to say he kept fit by jogging.

Downey was sent six pink roses by an American tourist, Jan Nyes of Hartford, Conn. Bowling said Miss Nyes heard about Downey's release and sent the roses because they both are from Connecticut.

Downey's release permitted a Red Cross representative to enter the Chinese side of the Hong Kong border for the first time, Bowling said. He said the Red Cross has delivered packages of food and other items to American prisoners in China once a month since 1955. These deliveries have always taken place at the middle of the border bridge.

In New Britain, Conn., Mrs. Mary V. Downey regained consciousness and talked with her family Sunday, hours before her son, John T. Downey, was released from China after 20 years of captivity.

A spokesman at New Britain General Hospital said Mrs. Downey remained in critical condition. She suffered a stroke Wednesday.

Her son was released by the Communist Chinese at Hong Kong Monday.

The 42-year-old John T. Downey, a former agent for the Central Intelligence Agency, has been held by the Chinese since his plane was shot down in 1952 over China. He was sentence to life imprisonment, but in November 1971 that term was commuted to five years. Last week, it was announced he would be freed on an appeal by President Nixon.

"Mrs. Downey remains on the critical list," said the hospital bulletin at 9 p.m. Sunday. "However, she has regained consciousness, has taken nourishment by mouth for the first time and has communicated coherently with her family for much of the day. Her vital signs remain stable."

Mrs. Downey, 75, had been reported in a semiconscious state since her admission at the hospital.

She has not been informed that her son was on his way home from China, the spokesman said.

Peace Hopes Dampened at Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — The shooting of an FBI agent and an Indian declaration that no federal officials will be permitted to enter Wounded Knee have dampened hopes for a permanent peace.

Interior Department officials said they would not comment on issues until midafternoon today, and there was no indication that talks were scheduled with Indian leaders.

Meanwhile, a grand jury was to convene today in Sioux Falls, S.D., to investigate the Feb. 27 takeover of the historic village by about 200 Indian militants. Warrants were issued Sunday by a U.S. magistrate in Rapid City for the arrest of five leaders of the occupation.

The Sunday gunplay came less than 24 hours after federal forces pulled down their road blocks and withdrew from a perimeter a few miles from the center of the village.

The shooting involved a small truck the Indians smeared with mud and dubbed their 'tank." Several FBI vehicles maintaining surveillance on roads into the village saw the truck about five miles west of Wounded Knee, officials said.

The FBI agents, who said they believed the vehicle was stolen, pursued the van, and there was an exchange of gunfire. Agent Curtis Fitzgerald of Chicago was struck in the right arm and was evacuated by helicopter.

The car in which Fitzgerald was riding had six bullet holes in the windshield—one on the passenger side and five on the driver's side, the latter apparently made by another agent firing from inside the car.

Indians said bullets smashed the rear windows of the van and flying glass cut an Indian's hand.

'The FBI is trying to provoke the situation," said Dennis Banks, a leader of the American Indian Movement, which led the takeover.

Each side said the other fired first.

It appeared briefly that the incident would detonate the explosive situation that has existed since the takeover — 250 Indians, many of them armed, facing off against 300 federal lawmen armed with high-powered rifles and automatic weapons. Indian reinforcements have slipped into the village since the takeover.

FBI agents donned flak jackets and used binoculars to survey each vehicle that approached their checkpoints, which were set up Sunday several miles from here.

The crisis dissolved after the Justice Department in Washington said the shooting would not create an armed confrontation. Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst said agents would remain away from the immediate area of Wounded Knee and would not shoot unless their lives were endangered.

The Indians said four men identifying themselves as U.S. postal inspectors entered the village Sunday and were held in custody before being released. The Indians said three pistols were found on the men. It was later verified that two of the men were postal inspectors.

The government had no comment on the incident, but Banks said: "They didn't come here to protect no mail boxes."

Russell Means, an AIM leader, announced over a loudspeaker system Sunday that the village was "now the Oglala Sioux Nation, a sovereign state."

Means told a crowd of a few hundred, "If any foreign official of any foreign country, specifically the United States, tries to enter the village, it will be treated as an act of war and treated accordingly."

He also said, "If any spies enter the village, they will be treated like spies everywhere and will face a firing squad."

AIM leaders said they would issue visas to all nonresidents of their "sovereign nation" but newsmen and members of the National Council of Churches would have free access.

About 11,000 Oglala Sioux live on the Pine Ridge Reservation. Main issues preventing a settlement were AIM's demands that the tribal constitution, council and president be suspended by the Interior Department. Interior, which has assumed the Justice Department's role of government spokesman at Pine Ridge, has steadfastly rejected this demand.

Court Action on Overlook

WOODSTOCK

The road to Overlook Mountain in Woodstock, closed for more than three years, may be forced open by court action next month. The action is being brought by the 250-000-member New York State Conservation Council against the State Department of Environmental Conservation.

A test case against Henry L. Diamond, commissioner of the Department of Environmental Conservation, will be brought by the Conservation Council, the state's largest and oldest (dating from 1933) environmental group of its type, at the Ulster County Court House in Supreme Court on April 6.

The environmentalists seek to compel the commissioner to open a locked chain link fence which now blocks all access to the roadway leading to Overlook Mountain. The fence was constructed by owners (C. Powers Taylor of Hawthorne and Fred Martenson of Yonkers) of the BE-NO Lodge, in September of 1969. The owners claimed that their property had been vandalized by "hippies" and that since they owned the land adjacent to the road, they had the right to block it.

A bill to permit limited access to Overlook Mountain, sponsored by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr., was vetoed by Gov. Rockefeller last year.

The law suit, to be heard on April 6, contends that under New York State law the state's forest preserve lands in the Catskill and Adirondack Parks "shall be forever reserved and maintained for the free use of all people' and that Commissioner Diamond is charged with the duty of enforcing all laws pertaining to forest preserve lands.

The Conservation Council claims that Diamond acted contrary to the duties imposed on him by law and that he violated their (the Council's) legal right to the free use of forest preserve by his refusal to take steps to remove the gates blocking the entrance to public lands.

In their legal papers, the council members allege that they requested Diamond to take steps to open the gates but that they were told that when the Department bought the land and the right of way in 1957 it was only to provide a means for their employes to travel back and forth to the fire observation tower at the top of 3,000 foot Overlook Mountain and that the road was not for the public's benefit.

The Council, however, takes the opposite view, and quoting from the Department's records of purchase negotiations in 1956 and 1957, notes several references to "the benefits which the public would derive from the recreational use of the land as well as the value of the roadway in enabling the public easy access to those lands." The state bought the 500 acre tract in 1957 for a total of $15,417 and added it to its vast Catskill Forest Preserve.

Dynamite on Marist Property

TOWN OF POUGHKEEPSIE

Twelve dozen sticks of "high potency" dynamite were found buried in shallow pits on Marist College property by two hikers late Sunday afternoon.

Poughkeepsie Town Police, who are attempting to determine the origin of the explosives, said two youths came across some freshly disturbed soil on the southern portion of college property. The youths scraped at the soil and found what they thought was a quantity of fireworks.

Town police were contacted, and determined that the explosives were dynamite.

According to Lt. Richard Hellmann, acting police chief, a search of the grounds is continuing today to determine if there is any more dynamite.

Hellman said the dynamite already found was packed in six boxes containing two dozen sticks each. The boxes were buried in two shallow pits.

One box, which had broken apart due to deterioration, was in an "extremely unstable condition," according to Hellman, and "could have gone off at any time." That box was removed from the others with the help of the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department, and was taken to the N. Y. Trap Rock Company in the southern portion of the township where it was detonated in a dynamite pit.

The five other boxes were to be detonated today after code numbers on the sticks were listed, Hellman said.

"We believe they were stolen from a construction company, but we are trying to verify that fact," Hellman told The Freeman. He said the dynamite was of "high potency."

According to Hellmann, it is impossible to determine exactly when the dynamite was buried. The condition of the soil has led police to believe that it was buried recently, however.

There were no dynamite caps buried with the sticks, police said.

One of the hikers who found the explosives was a Marist College student, police said. The other was a visitor to the campus.

Same Proposal Passed by County

Betros Files Bill for Senior Tax Exemptions

KINGSTON — A proposal to ease residency requirements for senior citizens applying for partial real estate tax exemption has evolved into a pre-filed State Assembly bill introduced by Assemblyman Emeel S. Betros, who represents Esopus, Lloyd and Marlboro in his 99th District.

The same proposal was the subject of a resolution unanimously adopted by Ulster County Legislature at its February session, introduced by County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, R-Dist. 8 and Legislator Glenn A. Debrosky, R-Dist. 7.

The local resolution asked for State Legislative action and copies were sent to Betros, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and State Senators Richard E. Schermerhorn and Edwyn E. Mason, all of whom represent some portions of Ulster County.

Under the measure senior citizens selling their real property and/or moving to another county or township in the state would not be required to reestablish a five-year residency, but would carry with them the residency accumulated at their previous residence.

The residency requirement is mandatory for those senior citizens, who are otherwise eligible, when they file for a 50 per cent exemption of real property assessment.

The measure, if approved would only apply to senior citizens moving from one location to another within the State of New York, and the new residence must have been purchased within the year of the sale of the previous residence.

The companion bill in the State Senate was filed by State Sen. Jay P. Rolison, R-39th Dist., who formerly represented residents of Ulster County.

The Savago-Debrosky resolution offered at the request of Rosendale Supervisor Gerard DeFelicis noted that qualified senior citizens, who have lived within a town or county for at least five years should be free to move anywhere within a county without penalty.

The measure was filed as Resolution N. 27, February 8, 1973 and adopted 32 to 0.

State Officials Here in June

KINGSTON — The Convention Committee of Ulster County Legislature is working on arrangements to welcome 400 delegates and guests of the New York State Supervisors and Legislators Association to the annual summer conference school June 24-27 at the Granit Hotel in Kerhonkson. The state association embraces officials from 57 counties.

Kingston Legislator Harry C. Kapreilian (R-City) was named recently as convention chairman by the Legislature's Industrial Development and Publicity Committee.

At a recent meeting of the Legislature, Kapreilian asked for the cooperation of all 33 legislators and 20 town supervisors to serve on the convention committee which is working in conjunction with the Ulster County Public Relations Office to secure advertisements and testimonials for the conference souvenir journal.

Co-Chairmen of the Souvenir Journal Committee are County Legislator Richard D. Nace (R-Dist. 2) and former Town of Ulster Supervisor Theodore Musialkiewicz.

The Special Awards Committee includes Kingston Legislators James F. Gilpatric (D-City) and Larry E. Kithcart (D-City).

Kapreilan said the Hostess Committee headed by Mrs. Wanda Armater, wife of Kingston Legislator Raymond Armater (R-City) will be in charge of the registration desk and special tours of county attractions for guests of the delegates.

Martorana Going for Legislature

PLATTEKILL — Former Ulster County Legislator Joseph Martorana of Plattekill announced today he is seeking the Republican nomination for County Legislator in District 8 under the new reapportionment plan.

In a letter to Republican Committeemen of the Towns of New Paltz, Gardiner, Plattekill, Lloyd and Marlboro, which comprise the new District with a population of over 30,000, Martorana made known his interest and desire to be one of the seven Republican candidates who will be selected to run in the November elections.

Martorana previously served as supervisor of the Town of Plattekill for six years, county legislator for two years, and as a staff employe of the State Legislature for seven years. He also served as assistant county budget officer and deputy clerk of the old board of supervisors.

Tax Resister Set in Paltz

NEW PALTZ

Gladys Burger will be visiting the Mid-Hudson area Tuesday, March 13, to discuss income tax resistance.

At 7:30 p.m. she will conduct a workshop in methods of income tax resistance at the home of Shirley Hathaway, 62 Millrock Road, New Paltz.

Mrs. Burger is a member of the Peace and Social Action Program of the New York Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) and lives in Brooklyn. She has been a tax resister for several years.

Gaullists Score Resounding Win

PARIS (UPI) — The ruling Gaullist-led coalition won a mandate to govern for another five years Sunday by scoring a bigger-than-expected victory over the combined force of Communists and Socialists.

"Good sense has won," said nterior Minister Raymond Marcellin.

Leftwing leaders called for demonstrations to protest the result.

Before the vote, experts and many politicians predicted a close finish between the Gaullists, who have governed for 15 years, and the alliance of leftwingers.

The government lost about 100 seats from the huge majority it rolled up in the 1968 elections and this, political sources said, indicated that voters wanted a change but not a revolution.

With only seven of 490 results left to report, Gaullists and their rightwing allies held a 90-seat majority over the Union of the Left and a majority of 59 seats over all rival parties combined.

Of the 483 of 490 National Assembly seats filled, results gave the Gaullists and their allies 271 seats to 181 seats for the Communists and Socialists.

A middle-of-the-road reform bloc won 28 seats and an extreme rightwing group won three seats.

Among the losing candidates were Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and Justice Minister Rene Pleven. Hubert Germain, minister of post and telegraph, won by 13 votes.

Other Gaullist ministers won, as did Communist party leader Georges Marchais, Socialist party leader Francois Mitterrand and the two leaders of the reform group, Jean Lecanuet and Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber.

Sixty of the 490 seats were filled in first-round voting a week ago and the other survivors of the first round competed Sunday in the run-off round. 'President (Georges) Pompidou is elated by the results," said a spokesman at the Elysee Palace.

Peron Followers In Argentina Sweep

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Followers of exiled former President Juan D. Peron won sweeping victories in the most important elections in a decade Sunday but the military government suspended the counting of votes for four hours early today with a Peron handpicked candidate for president near victory.

Onetime dentist Hector J. Campora, 63, who was chosen personally by Peron, swept to an overwhelming lead in a 9-man presidential race. It was the first presidential vote in 10 years.

With 98 per cent of the vote in, Campora polled 48.70 per cent of the ballots. His nearest rival trailed with 21.1 per cent.

But by law a presidential candidate must poll more than 50 per cent to win on the first ballot. Otherwise, he must run a second winner-take-all race against the runnerup.

Peron supporters danced in the streets and chanted "Peron, Per-on" as results rolled in showing his Justicialista Liberation Front scoring heavy gains. Peron himself is in exile in Madrid.

Peron workers, using their own statistics, predicted their man would gain 52 to 54 per cent of the vote, enough to ensure Campora of victory in the first round.

Unofficial results showed the Justicialist bloc had won or was leading in 23 of the country's 24 electoral districts.

Political observers said the results showed a widespread faith in Peron's abilities to improve the conditions of the lower class, as he often boasted he did during a 10-year dictatorship ending in 1955.

The military government that has ruled Argentina for six years called the election to return the country to civilian rule, but was openly hostile to Peron and his party.

President Alejandro Lanusse, who heads the military government, said before the voting began that the military would not relinquish power to "an accomplice of a new despotism."

Sources said this referred to Campora, who said if he won he would turn over real power to Peron.

Six Countries To 'Float' Money

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Six of the strongest currencies in Europe ended a 29-year relationship with the American dollar today.

The six countries agreed to "float" their own money on world markets when they reopen seven days from now, after a record 17-day shutdown to give governments time to solve the latest world monetary crisis.

The six Common Market nations announcing they would join the float included West Germany, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, The Netherlands and Denmark. Five non-Market nations, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Austria and Switzerland, were expected to join before March 19.

Three other Market nations, Britain, Ireland and Italy, did not join the float. They already were floating separately on money markets.

In addition to joining the float, West Germany announced it would revalue the mark upward by 3 per cent in dealings with its European partners.

The two moves were designed to calm the latest international monetary storm that broke last month with a flood of unwanted dollars pouring into the world's major money markets.

The Common Market allies decided to float the six currencies—that is, free the currencies from fixed dollar prices—at a 10-hour meeting of finance ministers ending early today.

A statement said finance ministers of the 14 richest non-Communist nations, including the United States, will endorse the new plan next Friday in Paris.

The new system, the statement said, will go into effect March 19 when world money markets reopen for the first time in 17 days. The markets were closed to stop the unloading of billions of dollars by individuals and corporations who feared it would lose even more value around the world.

The crisis blew up only 16 days after President Nixon devalued the dollar by 10 per cent in an attempt to solve an earlier world money crisis that centered on the dollar.

The joint float meant that the prices of the six currencies concerned will remain tied to each other. But they will float up and down in unison against the dollar and other currencies according to supply and demand.

Economists predicted the dollar's value will drop on European markets in the short term but probably will rise again in the long run.

Taxpayers' Advocate

Senator Joseph M. Montaya, New Mexico Democrat, who is chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee, is looking into the way the Internal Revenue Service treats American taxpayers. He has a suggestion which would please many of the little guys, the small taxpayers looking for a fair shake on their income taxes. Montaya would provide a taxpayer's advocate to help the little guy fight the huge IRS in court.

This does not differ much from Ralph Nader's idea, that national ombudsmen help average Americans compute their taxes and tell Congress how the tax system can be improved. Nader's own idea is that the prime change is to simplify the "verbal jungle we call our tax laws" for all to understand.

Another suggestion was made by Vincent Connery, president of the National Association of Internal Revenue employes. He would lengthen the training of IRS agents who aid taxpayers and give them refresher courses in changes of the law.

These and many more ideas that have surfaced at the Montaya-chaired hearing have in common the feeling that tax laws are too complex and that the taxpayer needs an advocate, an ombudsman, or an agent who is steeped in the law to help him get through the obstacles.

IRS spot checks have found that half the taxpayers use others to make out their tax reports. But another current hearing in the Senate casts doubt on the value of the tax preparers and urges that they may be licensed to certify to their ability. The other half who prepare their own tax reports presumably are the objects of Montaya's and his witnesses' compassion.

Only corporations, with their extensive legal resources, have the power to fight for their rights. The average taxpayer, unable to understand the complexities of the law, or even the tax form itself, needs help.

The Porn Boom

At last a New York City Criminal Court judge has come out and forbidden the showing of a pornographic motion picture, "Deep Throat," and has denounced its harmfulness in no uncertain terms. Judge Joel J. Tyler called "Deep Throat" obscene, a Sodom and Gomorrah gone wild." The theater could be fined more than $1 million. The court forbid further showings, and impounded the film.

This action is the first small but staunch barrier ever to be thrown so unflinchingly by officialdom against the raging, formerly untrammeled flood of sex in this country. Judge Tyler's stern words about depravity and decadence were a startling contrast to the Supreme Court's laissez faire, drowsy avuncular winking-of-the-eye at debilitating rottenness.

Sex is fine, in balance with man's other mental, emotional, physical artistic, and general community needs, but it should not overbalance all else. Not only plays, books, and movies, formerly staid women's magazines, TV material, ads in all media, and, for some time, the notably flagrant men's magazines—all are saturated with sex.

Pornography has become, not just dirty picture postcards, but a destroyer of minds. Its results, in the mounting horror of rape, in epidemic venereal disease, in hundreds of thousands of unborn killed, in utero, in the high divorce rate, juvenile delinquency, are alll too apparent.

OIL REFINED FOR AMERICA — A refinery at Come-by-Chance, Newfoundland, costing $308.5 million, will process Persian Gulf and North African crude oil for customers in the United States and Europe. Come-by-Chance can handle the super oil tankers, which American ports cannot, because of size.

SECRET U. S. BASES—Australian Defense Minister Lane Barnard told Parliament that secret U. S. bases in his country will continue to be protected by the Labor government. They are space research facilities, manned jointly by Australia and the United States. Each has given undertakings to the other to protect classified information.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

'Big John' Connally's Talents

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Debonair, dynamic John Connally has always had an affinity for money and politics. He hasn't always drawn a clear line between the two.

While he was secretary of the treasury, his former law partners filed applications for three national bank charters. All three were approved, more than any other Texas law firm was able to wangle. At least four other bank charters were granted to his political associates.

Connally is now back with his law firm, raking in the green. One of his law partners has boasted around Washington that so many corporations are clamoring to get Connally on their boards that he has set a minimum $50,000 feet for the privilege of listing him as a director.

We couldn't reach Connally to ask how much he charges, but a spokesman for his firm denied that the former treasury secretary collects a flat fee. He serves on many boards, the spokesman acknowledged, but any fee would be part of the retainer paid to the firm.

"Connally has gotten us new business," admitted the spokesman. But he insisted it wasn't Connally's political influence that attracted clients. "In the business world today on the highest levels," said the spokesman, "there is a lot of just plain horse trading, putting together mergers, oil consortiums. Connally is a good lawyer, persuasive, immensely knowledgeable, a good horse-trader. He brings to the negotiating table a good name and a lot of clout."

Using Connally

The spokesman also denied that Connally intervened while he was at the treasury to help the firm wrangle bank charters. "If we were going to use Connally in the role of treasury secretary," explained the spokesman, "there are better ways than bank charters. You can only go to the well and drink so many times."

It remains a fact, however, that the Connally firm — Vinson, Elkins, Searls and Smith — arranged charters for banks in Houston, Orange and Raymondville, Texas. The Raymondville charter (for the purpose of forming a holding company) was approved in a record three days after the application was filed.

Connally's former press secretary, Mike Myers, also was granted a charter for the Love Field National Bank in Dallas. Connally and Myers were former partners in the Trini's Mexican Restaurant chain and are still associated in a real estate development in Fort Worth.

The name of another close associate, Robert Strauss, now Democratic National Chairman, appeared on an application to charter the Town North National Bank in Dallas. An earlier application, filed in 1970 before Connally became secretary, was disapproved. But after Strauss joined the applicants and Connally took charge of the treasury, the charter was approved.

Two other Connally loyalists, Tom W. Miller, son of a former Austin mayor, and Horace Hall, a power in Laredo, were involved in successful applications for banks in Roundrock and Laredo, Texas, respectively.

Connally's Wealth

"Big John," as Connally is often called by his associates, has come a long way since he first broke into Texas politics in the 1940s. He came out of rural Texas, with the taste of poverty still in his mouth. He made a name for himself as the late Lyndon Johnson's political protege.

This opened the backrooms of the Texas oil millionaires for him and he caught the fancy of the late oil tycoon Sid Richardon. Oil and politics mixed well for Connally, who acquired the same smooth quality as the oils he promoted and quickly wound up as a millionaire himself.

Those privy to the smoke-filled backrooms say it was his oil credentials as much as his political credentials that got him appointed secretary of the navy under John Kennedy and later secretary of the treasury under Richard Nixon. The oil industry has a big stake in naval oil reserves and perhaps an even greater interest in favorable treasury rulings.

Footnote: Both Myers and Strauss denied that Connally had helped them get bank charters. A treasury spokesman said the comptroller of the currency approved all bank charters and the secretary "has no part in the decision-making process." The remarkable success of Connally's law partners and political cronies during his tenure, the spokesman indicated, was merely a coincidence.

Missing Men

Investigating teams, operating out of Nakhon Phanom, Thailand, just across the border from Laos, are scouring intelligence reports and running down leads for any trace of the American servicemen who are still missing in Indochina.

The U.S. base at Nakhon Phanom was turned into a intelligence - communications complex during the fighting in Vietnam. The sophisticated equipment, including a giant computer, has been put at the disposal of the investigating teams.

To Market, To Market!

Inside Report

Khartoum Episode

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A "highly noticeable" increase in the "traffic" of suspected Palestinian guerrillas in and out of the Libyan capital of Tripoli occurred for several weeks before the murder of three diplomats — including two high-ranking Americans — in Khartoum last week.

That clandestine movement has led top officials here to this tentative conclusion: without the help of the Libyan revolutionary government, the Black September Organization (BSO) might not have been able to pull off the desperate blackmail-massacre March 2 in Khartoum, capital of neighboring Sudan.

Moreover, a very important part of the resources essential to the BSO is known to come from oil-rich Libya, which is led by the most extreme Arab nationalist — Col. Muammar Qaddafi — now in power. This aid either comes indirectly through the major organization, Al Fatah, or directly to the killers.

Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, pro-U.S. monarchies with vast oil reserves, also have been financing Al Fatah since the 1967 war, when Israel seized the Palestinian west bank of Jordan and the Sinai peninsula. One reason for this Saudi and Kuwaiti help has been self-protection. With the payment of blood money, both conservative pro-Western Arab states have been ignored by the Palestinian assassins.

Yet, even in the case of Libya, the Nixon administration is extremely reluctant to take diplomatic counterstrokes. A careful study of U.S. counteraction all the way up to breaking diplomatic relations with Libya has resulted in a tentative decision to do nothing, and that explains how difficult it is to control world terrorism with diplomacy.

Libya is a principle supplier of oil for Western Europe. Helping in oil production are some 3,000 American citizens, all more or less dependent on the U.S. embassy. If President Nixon broke diplomatic relations with Libya in retaliation for the bloody charade in Khartoum, these Americans would either have to accept evacuation — or run the risk of a possibly violent anti-American Libyan reaction.

Worse yet, it would play into the hands of supernationalists in the Libyan government, to the left even of Col. Qaddafi, who want all American influence expelled from the Middle East. Finally, such a diplomatic counteraction might not impede future escapades by the BSO.

Thus, ruling out strong diplomatic counteraction at least for the present, the Nixon administration is taking a different course: trying to persuade Arab leaders that they themselves must deal toughly with Palestinian terrorism — or risk self-destruction. As one high official told us: "If the Libyans don't handle this, sooner or later it will destroy them."

This is clearly understood by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, who was responsible for restraining Qaddafi after the outrageous Israeli shooting down of a Libyan airliner with 106 fatalities two weeks ago.

Sadat even threatened to end the special Egyptian-Libyan political link fueling his successful effort to prevent Qaddafi from exploding in retaliation against Israel. Sadat's motive was obvious: to block an Arab retaliation so excessive that world opinion, solidly anti-Israeli after the Feb. 21 tragedy, would swing the other way.

Then came Khartoum. Since then, Sadat — along with other Arab moderates — has continued his quiet pressure on Qaddafi. Their message: let the Sudanese government deal with the eight assassins without outside interference or threats. Their private hope: the eight will be sentenced to die, with that penalty — the first of its kind — beginning the end of the Palestinian terrorist movement.

But Sadat has scarcely more leverage against Qaddafi than does President Nixon, and even the threat of breaking up the Egyptian-Libyan political union might not stop Qaddafi from attacking the Sudanese government as tools of American "imperialism" if the killers are actually executed.

In sum, there are no international weapons capable of dealing with such global terrorism beyond maximum punishment of those responsible.

That means the death penalty in Khartoum and a decision by all Arab states to stop aiding and abetting international criminal activity. Anything less not only threatens other lives in other countries but also guarantees that even the legitimate Arab cause in the bitter struggle with Israel will be more and more damned, everywhere in the world.

Tilly Finds That 'Right Is Right'

Tilly could never make Miss America. She couldn't make Miss East Chicago Heights, where she lived. To be candid, she couldn't make Miss West-of-Calumet-East-of-State, which is boxing it pretty small. There were some classy, sassy looking dollies on the south side of Chicago, but Tilly could — and did — walk alone in Woodrow Wilson Woods at night without a shadow of danger.

She wasn't exactly flat, but whatever she wore looked as though it was still on a wire hanger. She had thick brown hair and a thick brown nose, two hazel eyes about the size of .22 buckshot; somebody forgot to make lips.

The candy store bookies were giving 20-to-1 that Tilly would never get married and 8-to-5 she couldn't pay a guy to take her to the movies. She fooled everybody. Tilly found a guy named Smokey and he found himself married before he could blow his stack.

The neighborhood said her mother drugged the guy. Nobody believed it. Smokey was six feet three and weighed 155. He had a crew cut and underneath that was a neck. If there was anything between, nobody saw it.

He worked in the steel mills. Smokey made a living turning fuel valves off and on. Monotonous? Not to him. Smokey thought his work was fascinating. He had an I.Q. of about 30, if science could find a way of testing him. When he was single, his idea of fun was to take a bus to the Loop, buy two Hershey bars, and watch the wind blow the dresses.

Tilly was about as shy as a starving shark in a sardine factory. However, she acted demure in the courtship, which was a succession of trips to his bowling alleys. When they were married, she slammed the lid on Smokey. She took his savings and made a down payment on a two-family house.

"Right is right," she told Smokey five times a day. He was a slow learner, and it required time to comprehend that right was right only when Tilly said it was right. She cut off his cigarettes. "Right is right," she said, "and cigarettes are no good for you." This went double for drinking, which Tilly said was the curse of the devil.

Smokey said he didn't know the devil drank. Tilly gave him one of her high-noon looks. As a bridegroom, he was in favor of a little hanky-panky now and then, but she said, "there'll be none of that. Spend a little time on your knees in church."

It is in the nature of a miracle to have children without either hanky or panky, so they were childless. He left every morning at 6 a.m. for the steel mill and he was home at 6 p.m. for a hot dinner of boiled beef and turnips.

When television was invented, Tilly went for one. "I can't keep looking at the four walls all day," she said. "Right is right." At night, they watched what she liked. He brought his pay home to her every Friday night sealed. Once in awhile, on a windy Sunday, he'd go to church with her and take a walk, looking for a windy corner.

For 37 years, Smokey turned the valves on, and turned them off. There were blistering cold days when his fingers stuck to the metal valves, and summer days when the heat rode on his shoulders all day.

Once in a while, he allowed himself to think that Tilly didn't look different growing old than she had when she was young. Just as ugly, except she walked to church in a cloth coat as though she was looking for lost pennies. His crew cut grew white; his big hands became shaky.

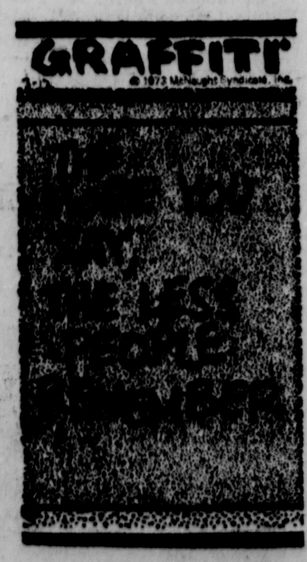

The company retired Smokey on half pay. Tilly said: "Between your pension and the rent from upstairs, we'll have to cut down a little. If you were any kind of a man, you'd get a night job as a watchman. Right is right."

Smokey wouldn't do it. He began to smoke cigarettes. Tilly asked where he got the money. "Right is right," he said mysteriously. Then he bought a new suit with a belt in the back. Tilly demanded to know where the money came from. He refused to answer. At night, he left her alone and went out bowling. At least he said he was bowling.

One day she was riffling through the mail. There was a letter for Smokey. She opened it and a check fell out. It was a good one. When he came home, she demanded to know what the check was for.

"Well," Smokey said slowly, "you must admit, Tilly, that you've been running this house like a concentration camp. It never occurred to you that, every two years, I got a raise in salary. Over the years, I invested in company bonds.

"Now the money is rolling in — to me. As you say, Doll, right is right."...

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

75TH ANNIVERSARY—Kingston Chapter No. 155, Order of Eastern Star, observed its 75th anniversary March 2. Among the officers and members from chapters in the Greene-Ulster district who attended were (l-r) Mildred Schuchardt, district deputy grand matron; Barbara Schoonmaker, Kingston matron who was in charge of the activities; George Main, 93, a member of the chapter for 70 consecutive years who received a life membership and certificate; Arthur Aldridge, worthy patron; and Thomas Olsen, district grand lecturer. Other principals in attendance included Stella and Peter Harp of Highland Chapter; Delores and Frank Becker of Clinton Chapter; Jane Slote of Windham Chapter, along with seven past grand officers and 22 past matrons and patrons. A degree was presented by the officers and highlights of the chapter from 1898 were read by the matron. A buffet was served by Janice Wolf. Approximately 140 members attended including many from chapters outside the district. The next meeting is planned for Friday, March 16, when a St. Patrick's Day theme will prevail.

New Sound to Be Explored Tuesday Night at New Paltz

Not only are we in the age of the synthesizer and electronic tape, but now pieces are being written for electric string quartets. By placing contact microphones on each instrument, a new sound is achieved. This new sound will be explored by the Concord String Quartet in a concert at State University of New York at New Paltz on Tuesday, March 13, at 8:30 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room of the new Student Union Building.

Featured on the program will be George Crumb's piece for string quartet entitled Black Angels (13 Images from the Darkland) which uses an electric string quartet plus several other "surrealistic" effects — pedal tones, bowing on the wrong side of the strings and trills with thimble capped fingers. Added to the string venture are some other instruments — moraccas, tam-tams, and water-tuned crystal wine glasses played with a bow.

What is the point of all this? Well, the composer feels it helps him convey the symbolism of his piece — mainly that of an apocalyptic vision. The central theme is based on the essential polarity between God and the devil. It is in an arch form with three parts (trinity) depicting a voyage of the soul; departure (fall from grace), absence (descent into the darkland) and return (redemption).

There is also a strongly interwoven numerological structure using primarily the apocalyptic numbers of seven and 13. These numbers are incanted in several different languages by the players. There are also several illusions to tonal music; Schubert's Death and the Maiden and the Latin Dies Irae; and an original synthetic sarabande based on B Major and symbolizing God.

The intent of the quartet is to depict the turmoil of the times. George Crumb's notes are as follows: "Finished on Friday, 13 March in tempore belli, 1970" (in tempore belli translated — in time of war).

Also on the program are two other contemporary works —George Rochberg's first string quartet and Leon Kirchner's Pulitzer Prize winning third string quartet — for quartet plus electronic tape. These will be performed by the Concord String Quartet.

Right now, the Concord String Quartet is under the auspices of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society as their resident string quartet. They appear at the colleges involved in the Cooperative Area Music Program, a program funded by the New York State Council on the Arts.

The Concord Quartet is recognized as a leading quartet and has among its honors the winning of the prestigious 1972 Walter Naumburg Chamber Music Award.

The Concord String Quartet, whose members are Mark Sokol and Andrew Jennings, violins; John Kochanowski, viola; and Norman Fischer, cello, will again appear at New Paltz April 3, with a more traditional program.

The concert is open to the public, and there will be no admission charge.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Although I read your column every day, this is the first time I've sent in a hint.

We prefer our bacon broiled. Now that our family is small, I hated to dirty the broiler for just a few slices of bacon. I decided to broil two or three pounds of bacon at a time. After it is crispy done I freeze it between layers of wax paper in a large flat plastic container.

As we need the bacon, I take out the desired number of slices, heat on a cookie sheet in the oven and then serve.

You would never know but what the bacon was just freshly prepared!

Dear Heloise:

I've discovered a lifesaver and it happened by accident as quite a few discoveries do.

I forgot to wash the colorful tennis shoes that I wanted our 3-year-old daughter to wear. Soap and water doesn't always do the best last-minute cleaning, so I grabbed the tile-and-tub cleaner and sprayed the white rubber trim. Then I took a terry washcloth and wiped the cleaner off, and I was left with the whitest trim on those tennis shoes that I had seen since buying them.

With ten children, I am very thrilled with my discovery, as I habitually seem to be left with such last minute chores. Consequently, I'm always happy with myself when I discover something like this. Hope you are, too!

Dear Heloise:

My husband and I just bought a new king-sized bed and were horrified when we priced king-sized comforters.

I happened to remember the twin-sized comforters that our girls had used on their beds when they lived at home, and wondered if I could possibly use them.

This is what I came up with: I sewed gripper tape on one side of each twin comforter and then just "stuck" the two together (making one out of two). It made the perfect size for our bed, and think what I saved.

Also if I ever need twin-sized comforters again, all I have to do is pull them apart and quick as magic, I have twin-sized comforters again.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Greg and I have been married for six years (no children) and I thought we were getting along rather well when suddenly, after a trivial argument, he walked out on me and didn't come home that night. I was frantic.

The next day I called him at work and his receptionist said he was busy and would call me back. He never called. And he didn't come home that night either. I phoned his office again and got the same treatment.

Finally I went to his office and waited for him outside. He said he was fed up with married life and he was coming for his clothes that night, which he did.

All he said was he would stay married to me if I agreed to let him come and go with no questions asked. Also, if he felt like taking me somewhere he would, but I wasn't to ask HIM. Finally, he didn't want to see my face around his place of business.

I have seen a priest and a lawyer. They both said I should either accept Greg on his terms, or let him go. I am 35 but people say I look 25. He's 32, and looks 45. What do you think?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: I think your husband's terms are absurd. If I were you I'd say, "bye bye" while I still "looked 25."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a school teacher with a serious bronchial condition. The doctor told me I should not even be where others are smoking. Well, I put a sign up in my apartment reading "Thanks for not smoking."

Everyone who has come to visit me has respected that request, and I really appreciated it. Last week I had a few guests who had never visited me before. When one of them saw the sign, she said, "Don't think I am staying here and not smoking. Give me an ashtray!"

When I told her I didn't have any ashtrays she asked for a dish. I refused. I served coffee, and she and the others smoked and used their cups for ashtrays.

Abby, I couldn't believe it. I didn't want to hurt them, but I hurt myself. That night I couldn't sleep, and the next day I couldn't use my voice to speak to my students.

So what can I do about rude, inconsiderate people who smoke regardless?

INSULTED IN SOUTHBRIDGE

DEAR INSULTED: You can tell THEM)not me) that you cannot torlerate smoke, so they will have to make a choice between your company and their cigarets. But say it like you mean it!

Music will be supplied by Lewis Gaylord, baritone, of Saugerties. Mr. Gaylord has studied voice in New York City, and opera with the Turnau Opera School at Hunter College. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Richard Braen of Woodstock. Mr. Gaylord is an engineer with the State Department of Transportation, and also serves as a choir director.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. James Reynolds of Saugerties, a college graduate, secretary and mother of four children. While her husband spent a year on business at the French Riviera, she and her children lived there with him.

A nursery is provided at the hotel. Mothers are asked to bring a sack lunch and soft toy for each child.

Reservations for the luncheon and nursery must be made by Wednesday, March 14, with Mrs. Donald Sweeney, Codwise Street, Kingston, or Mrs. Ray Newton, 28 Kalina Drive, Saugerties.

UCCC Returns to Familiar Setting

By IRA FUSFELD

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Steve Richardson took three long strides down the lane, vaulted high in the air, and promptly stuffed the basketball in the basket. . . .two hands, behind his back.

In a game, it would have been cause for a technical foul. In Sunday afternoon's practice session at the Sports Arena here, it created oohs and ah's from several local youngsters watching Ulster County Community College's basketball team go through some rather loose paces under the direction of assistant coach Jerry Moss.

The Senators made it back here for the second straight year earlier in the afternoon, and coach Mike Perry immediately ordered the workout to get all hands acquainted with the site of the annual National Junior College Athletic Association tournament which begins Tuesday at 1 p.m. EST when UCCC meets Platte Junior of Nebraska.

The drill was by no means a tough one, it concerning itself primarily with shooting and unlimbering muscles which had been cramped through a six-hour air and land journey. Thus everyone merely went through the motions, fully aware of the serious business ahead, but confident that they could handle it.

One Senator didn't have quite as much fun as the others. Freshman Lenoris Clemons, hampered by a sprained back suffered in an off-the-court mishap, spent most of the time exercising. He is listed as doubtful for the opener.

Coach Perry's main concern —familiarizing the players with the 8000 seat facility — was one several of the squad members downplayed.

"I like this court," said Coleman Link, UCCC's 6-5 corner man. "The only thing that can throw you is the crowd behind the baskets. We're not really used to that. But I like the floor and I like the rims."

It's no wonder either. Link, you'll recall, was super in last year's appearance here.

Co-captain Jackie Knowles, also didn't think the court was much of a problem, nor, apparently, did those playing on it for the first time. No one was visibly bothered.

The team practiced again at 8 a.m. this morning, then took it easy before Tuesday's tip-off. Perry still has that unusual air of optimism surrounding him, first saying the team "would win some games this year," then amplifying it by claiming "I think we got a fair shake on the bracket.

"We know Southern Idaho and we know Mercer," Perry explained, referring to a possible second round match-up, if Ulster gets by Platte. "And we can stay away from Hutch."

Hutch is the hometown representative, always a tough draw on their own court. The Dragons are not in Ulster's bracket and the two would meet only if both reached the finals.

Those veterans of tournament watching who were at Sunday's practice seemed to think Ulster's one-year of experience here gives the Senators a decided advantage against Platte.

The key to Platte's attack will be a 6-3 guard from Omaha, Tim Williams. He's been scoring at an 18.5 points per game clip. Others in the Raiders' starting lineup will be 6-4 Dan Hollatz (10.0), 6-6 Jack Wesolowski (12.5), 6-4 Brad McArdle (11.0), and 6-5 Frank Brower (14.0).

Platte has been averaging 89 points per game while yielding 72.2. It enters the tourney with a 27-6 record and an eight game winning streak. The Raiders are said to run and press.

TOURNEY TALK — Only Bacone, Okla., has won more games then Ulster of the 16 teams here. Bacone is 32-5, UCCC is 31-4. . .None of the top nine offensive teams in the country made it to Hutch, and only one of the top 12 defensive clubs qualified: Ulster. . . . Tourney tickets might go quickly if Hutchinson fails to get into this event, but with the home town in, they really move. Three hours after the Dragons won their inter-regional, $500 worth of tickets were sold . . . Already $55,000 is in the ticket till, with 1,500 reserved seats left up for grabs. . . .Players and coaches will hear Joe Dean of Converse Rubber at banquet tonight. . . .The Hutch area had been deluged by nine days of rain before Sunday's sunny spring-like afternoon . . . Hospitality is the password at all establishments. Restaurant where team ate dinner had "Welcome Ulster JUCO" on sign in front of main entrance.

MAD HATTER — Lee Trevino grabs his hat for a wild throw Sunday after sinking a putt on the 18th hole to win the Doral Eastern Open in Miami, Fla. Trevino beat Bruce Crampton and Tom Weiskopf by one stroke, finishing the tournament 12-under par. (UPI)

A 'Nervous' Trevino Is Just Too Much

MIAMI (UPI) — The myth of the "Merry Mexican" is slowly evaporating.

Lee Trevino, winner of two PGA tournaments in the last three weeks, is turning out to be a very serious guy when it comes to golf. He runs two miles a day, he hits 300 practice balls daily, he hasn't had a drink since July and now he says he's a nervous golfer.

"I know everybody calls me 'happy-go-lucky' and things like that, but I'm a nervous player —I think I'm just as nervous as anyone on the tour," said Trevino after firing a 1-under-par 71 Sunday for a one-stroke win in the $150,000 Doral Eastern golf tournament with 276.

The stocky Mexican-American, who won the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic two weeks ago, had plenty of reason to be nervous Sunday.

He had to fight off late challenges from Australian Bruce Crampton and Tom Weiskopf, who tied for second.

Trevino, who led by four strokes at the end of the first three rounds of the Doral event, looked up at the scoreboard after the 14th hole and discovered Crampton had tied him.

Crampton, birdeying four of the first five holes, shot a 65—the day's best round. He had a shot at the title right up until the final hole.

But Trevino put him away with birdies on the 15th and 16th holes—on charging birdie putts of 20 and 15 feet, both of which hit the cup, bounced up and dropped in.

"I seem to play better when I'm tied or a shot ahead or a shot behind —when the chips are down," he said. "I'm not a good front-runner."

Nobody argued with him. His two birdies put him two strokes up on Crampton and Weiskopf and he promptly bogeyed the next hole—the par four 17th.

Coming up to the 18th with a one-shot lead, he said: "I kept telling myself I wasn't going to give this tournament away."

He didn't. Trevino hit the green, but 80 feet short of the cup. He putted to two feet, sank it and collected the $30,000 first prize.

The win moves Trevino's 1973 earnings to $98,275 against $91,436 for Crampton, who has held onto the money-winning lead tenaciously for the last several weeks.

Beating Canadiens Something Special

BOSTON (UP) — Winning is always important to Jacques Plante, but there's something special about it when you beat the Montreal Canadiens.

The 44-year-old netminder, who spent his prime in a Montreal Uniform, helped the Boston Bruins to a 5-3 decision over the Canadiens Sunday night, their first win this year in the series between the two clubs.

"Any time you beat Montreal or New York, it's a special achievement," Plante said. "You get up more for these teams because it's something special to beat them.

"You've got to be planing these games from the shoulders up — using your head all the time," he said. "It's so rewarding to beat them and you want to play that much harder."

The Bruins, third in the NHL East and still 16 points behind front-running Montreal, outplayed the Canadiens all the way Sunday night.

They outshot Montreal 41-21, but weren't able to break the game open until Johnny Bucyk took a goal-mouth pass from Bobby Orr and slipped it into the open side of the net at 3:09 of the third period for a 3-2 lead.

Doug Roberts followed with a hard slap shot from the face off circle at 11:58 and Gregg Sheppard gave Boston a 5-2 lead with another drive at 18:31.

Guy Lapointe closed out the scoring with his second goal of the night for Montreal at 18:46.

Lapointe and Boston's Phil Esposito traded goals in the first period and Frank Mahovlich of the Canadiens and Fred O'Donnnell of the Bruins shared a pair of second period scores.

"It was a complete team effort for us tonight," Bruins' Coach Armand "Bep" Guidolin said. "And that's the only way this team can win from here on in is with a whole team effort.

"They played defensive minded," he said. 'It's the best defensive game they've played in the last two weeks. Look at the score sheet. (Yvon) Cournoyer had only one shot on our goal all night. Donny Marcotte was playing him. That's the story of the game. You hold Cournoyer to one shot and you're going to be able to win."

The Bruins, still battling for second in the east, remained four points behind the New York Rangers, who downed the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2.

In other NHL games Sunday, Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 3-2, Detroit beat St. Louis 3-1, Minnesota edged the New York Islanders 2-1 and Chicago ripped California 5-1.

Rookie Steve Vickers scored the winning goal early in the second period and set up an insurance goal by Bill Fairbairn in the final period as the Rangers held off Toronto. Vickers scored his 25th goal, one short of the club record for a rookie, to give New York a 3-0 lead and set up Fairbairn's 25th after Jim McKenny and George Ferguson had cut the Ranger lead to 3-2.

In the World Hockey Association, the Cleveland Crusaders got a goal from Ron Buchanan in each period to hand the Winnipeg Jets their worst defeat of the season, 11-2.

Elsewhere, Sunday, Quebec whipped New York 6-1, Houston defeated Philadelphia 4-2, Los Angeles beat Ottawa 4-2 and Minnesota edged Alberta 2-1.

Celtic Viewpoint: Just Another Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Our win today doesn't make much difference in the standings, Boston Celtic Captain John Havlicek said. "You just hate to get beat by the same team four games in a row."

The Celtics clobbered the New York Knicks 122-107 in a National Basketball Association game Sunday to snap a three game losing streak in their season series with New York.

The victory increased the Celtics lead over the Knicks in the NBA's Atlantic Division to 7½ games. And with only 10 games remaining for Boston, it reduced to two the number of Celtic victories and Knicks losses that remain between Boston and the Atlantic Division title.

In other NBA games Sunday Houston beat Atlanta 129-118, Golden State edged Philadelphia 97-93 and Los Angeles bombed Detroit 141-117. In Saturday NBA action, New York crushed Kansas City-Omaha 125-102, Buffalo edged Portland 106-101, Seattle beat Philadelphia 106-96, Atlanta squeaked by Golden State 117-113, Chicago defeated Baltimore 105-99 and Houston clobbered Cleveland 131-116.

Havlicek lead the way in Sunday's nationally televised game with 32 points, aided by the rebounding and defensive work of Dave Cowens and Paul Silas.

The game was pretty much decided when the Celtics ran off a 31-15 first quarter lead as the Knicks committed a string of fouls, five in a 55-second stretch, and could get litle help from standout forward Dave DeBusschere. DeBusschere played only nine minutes and did not score before being lifted by Coach Red Holzman because of a bruised hip.

Dave Cowens added 24 points for the Celtics while Jo Jo White and Don Chaney pitched in 20 and 19 points, respectively.

Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 22 points and Jerry Lucas added 21.

Jack Marin scored 35 points and Rudy Tomjanovich added 28 as the Houston Rockets beat the Atlanta Hawks.

Rick Barry's disputed three-point play in the final seconds gave the Golden State Warriors a victory over the Phildelphia 76er's.

With 13 seconds left, Barry made the second of two foul shots with 13 seconds left to break a 93-93 tie. The 76ers then took a timeout, but when play resumed, Barry stole an inbounds pass and fed to Jim Barnett, who scored and was fouled on the play. Barnett sank the free throw to ice the victory in the final seconds.

Philadelphia Coach Kevin Loughery vehemently protested the foul, and received two technical fouls for his efforts.

The Los Angeles Lakers clinched at least a tie for the Pacific division crown with a 24 point thrashing of the Detroit Pistons.

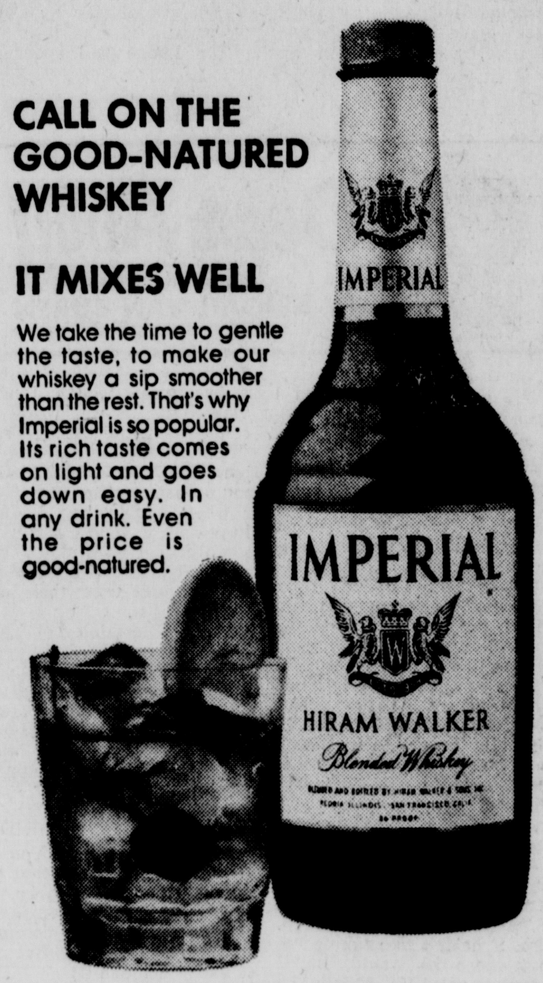

In the American Basketball Association Sunday New York beat Memphis 120-113, Kentucky bombed Denver 119-82, Indiana defeated Carolina 115-105, and Utah beat San Diego 112-101.

In ABA action Saturday Virginia edged Denver 106-103, Kentucky beat Memphis 121-110 and San Diego stopped Dallas 120-116.

BASKETBALL

LOGAN, Utah — T.L. Plain, head basketball coach at Utah State University for the past two seasons, resigned to enter private business.

Ohio Kegler Leads in ABC

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Lefthander Richard Carroll of Zanesville, Ohio took over the singles leadership in the American Bowling Congress tournament Sunday by rolling a 696 series on games of 223, 245 and 228.

This was Carroll's 11th visit to an ABC tourney and the 41-year-old bank teller had 19 strikes and just one open frame after leaving a 7-9 split in the second game. No bowler has rolled 700 in the tourney in any of the events.

Previous leader Albert Mastronardi of Cortland, N.Y., dropped into second place with a 678 set and Joe Krey of St. Paul, Minn., moved into third place with a 659 series. Richard Gallaway, also of Zanesville, occupied the fourth spot with 654.

Virginia Still Beating Rivals

DALLAS (UPI) — Virginia Wade is usually looked upon by the general tennis watching public as being one of those excellent players who, nevertheless, ranks just below the super players.

But since Miss Wade has just beaten two of those super players back to back, she might start receiving some of the notice she no doubt feels she deserves.

Miss Wade, 27, waltzed past Australia's Evonne Goolagong Sunday, 6-4, 6-4 to capture the $12,000 first prize of the second Maureen Connolly Brinker Tennis Tournament.

Just 24 hours before she had outlasted Chris Evert, who had not lost a match in six months, before running afoul of the tall, hard-serving Miss Wade.

Miss Wade won three tournaments last year, including the Australian Open, and has been a quarterfinalist or better each of the last five years at Forest Hill—winning the U.S. Open there in 1968.

But her efforts over the weekend on the hard surfaced Brookhaven Country Club courts, amount to one of her top thrills in tennis.

Wizards Win, 88-66

Larry Cheatham scored 23 points to pace the Harlem Wizards to an 88-66 victoy over the Ulster County Community College Alumni Sunday at the municipal auditorium. Details in Tuesday's paper.

Capri 400 Sweeps SAA Playoffs

SAUGERTIES — Capri 400 swept honors in the SAA Basketball League by taking a thrilling classic from Acker's Raiders 83-82 in the finals of the championship playoff Saturday.

Capri, regular league champions, earned a great come-from-behind triumph, as the Raiders opened up an eight-point lead at the half and pushed to 14 during the third quarter. Capri then effectively utilized a press that brought them to within one point at the end of the third period.

With 2:43 left to play, Rod Chando took over at that point, sinking two free throws, hitting a field goal and assisting for another bucket to get Capri the lead they held in the final hectic seconds, Mike Derrenbacher's two free throws gave them a five-point lead with nine seconds and Pete Koola's two baskets could narrow the gap to only the final one-point margin.

Chando led Capri 400 with 24 points and had seven assists. Ray Lindhorst grabbed 23 rebounds and canned 19 points. Don Komosa added 14 points and 11 rebounds. Mike Palladino had 14 points and Derrenbacher hit for 10, all in the second half.

Koola took game honors with 27 points for the Raiders. He also had 14 rebounds. Ron Thomas tossed in 17, Scott Miller mustered 10 and Jerry Hawkins handled six assists.

The playoff triumph thereby meant a near clean sweep of all team and individual honors for the Capri. The squad took the pennant and the playoffs and single crowns were won as follows: scoring — Rod Chando; rebounds — Komosa; assists — Derrenbacher. Only the foul-shooting trophy eluded them, but they did the league's MVP in Komosa.

The score:

Wooden Likes the Odds

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The UCLA Bruins begin throwing for "seven" this week and John cWooden likes the odds, as usual.

"My optimism going into the NCAA playoffs is about the same as last year—I wouldn't trade my chances with anyone," says the highly successful coach.

It will take more than a roll of the dice to beat the nation's top-ranked team. The Bruins have won six straight national titles and appear just as strong this year as in the past.

"We were down a little but we are coming back and getting sharp at just the right time," says Wooden, whose team currently has a record 71-game winning streak over 2½ seasons and has won 32 straight games in the NCAA Tournament.

With a first-round victory Saturday, Arizona State earned the dubious honor of meeting the mighty Bruins this Thursday in one of the West Regional semifinal games. The other matches Long Beach State against the University of San Francisco, champion in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Like UCLA, winner of the Pacific-8 Conference, Ian Francisco drew a first-round bye. But there was plenty of action over the weekend—nine game from coast-to-coast.

In the West Regional, Western Athletic Conference champion Arizona State trounced Oklahoma City 103-78 and Long Beach, champion of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, beat Big Sky winner Weber State 88-75.

In the Mideast, Marquette scored a 77-62 victory over Miami of Ohio, the Mid-American Conference champion, and Ohio Valley Conference winner Austin Peay nipped Jacksonville 77-75.

South Carolina eliminated Southwest Conference champion Texas Tech 78-70, and Southwestern Louisiana smothered Houston 102-89 in the Midwest Regional.

In the East, Syracuse took an 83-32 decision over Furman, the top team in the Southern Conference; Ivy League champion Penn edged St. John's N.Y. 62-61, and Providence registered an 89-76 triumph over St. Joseph's, Pa., the winner in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Saturday's results set up the pairings for Thursday's semi-finals in the four regions.

In the Midwest at Houston, it's South Carolina against Missouri Valley Conference titlist Memphis State and Southwestern Louisiana vs. Kansas State.

In the Mideast at Nashville, Tenn., Marquette faces Big Ten champion Indiana and Austin Peay will play Kentucky, winner in the Southeastern Conference. The West Regional will be held at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles.

Although drawing a bye in the first round of the playoffs, UCLA still had some work to do over the weekend. The Bruins wrapped up their regular Pacific-8 Conference season with a 76-56 victory over Southern California.

The Big Ten Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference also finished their seasons. Indiana notched an NCAA berth, winning the Big Ten with a 77-72 victory over Purdue while Minnesota was upset by Northwestern 79-74. North Carolina State tripped Maryland 76-74 in the ACC playoff finale. However, Maryland will represent the league in the NCAA playoffs.

Willie Makes News With AWOL Trip

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Not to be outdone by the marital headlines of New York Yankee pitchers Fritz Peterson and Mike Kekich and their respective spouses last week, one of the New York Met wives made a little news over the weekend.

Mrs. Mae Mays received an expensive visit from husband Willie while the Mets, who are looking for a center fielder anyway, put out baseball's version of an APB for the AWOL Willie.

The Yankees' official policy was hands off the Peterson-Kekich hi-jinks. Mays wasn't so lucky, and Manager Yogi Berra slapped him with a fine estimated from $500 to $1,000 after the 41-year-old superstar missed connections on a flight back from his Atherton, Calif., home to the Mets' St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp and failed to show up for a Saturday workout.

"I made a mistake," Mays admitted after Berra socked him with the first major fine of his long career at Sunday meeting. "He made his point and he was right. When I'm wrong, I'm wrong. I should have told him."

At first, Mays said his wife wasn't feeling well. Later, he amended his story, saying, "Mostly my wife's lonesome, but she'll join me next week."

At any rate, Mays' absence Saturday had the Mets sending a search party to his apartment a few miles from St. Petersburg. Asked why he hadn't phoned when his original flight back from California was canceled, Mays shrugged:

"I should have. It sounds silly, but I didn't know the number. I could have found it out. I agree, but I thought I could be back before anybody knew I was gone."

The Mets also had their problems on the field Sunday, bowing to the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4 on an 11th-inning single by Luis Melendez after they wiped out a 4-0 deficit. Three of the Cards' runs came on a homer by rookie Ray Busse.

Elsewhere, the pitchers suddenly no longer were ahead of the hitters.

Mike Schmidt drove in six runs with a triple and grand slam homer, powering the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates 'B' squad. Bill Robinson socked a two-run homer after Schmidt's grand slam in the sixth inning.

Milwaukees' George Scott also had a six-RBI game with a pair of three-run homers in the Brewers' 12-2 rout of the San Diego Padres. The Brewers also got home runs from Darrell Porter and John Vukovich.

Cliff Johnson's grand slam capped a tie-breaking five-run uprising in the ninth inning as the Houston Astros outslugged the Minnesota Twins 10-5. Doug Rader also connected for the Astros while the losers got consecutive homers in the seventh inning from Bobby Darwin and Danny Walton. In other games it was Montreal 11, Texas Rangers 2; Baltimore 10, New York Yankees 0; Detroit 13, Cincinnati 8; Los Angeles 6, Atlanta 3; Boston 6, Pittsburgh 'A' squad 1; Kansas City 4, Chicago White Sox 3; Sans Francisco 9, Cleveland 5; Cleveland 'B' team 5, Oakland 4; California Angels 8, Chicago Cubs 7.

Frankie Frisch Is Dead at 74

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Baseball Hall of Famer Frankie Frisch died today at the Delaware Medical Center almost five weeks after he was injured in an automobile accident.

The 75-year-old Frisch was driving alone on Interstate 95 near Elkton, Md., on Feb. 8, when his car swerved off the road and crashed.

Frisch was listed in critical condition every day during his hospitalization. He was pronounced dead at 7:25 a.m. this morning.

A hospital spokesman said the official cause of death would be released later.

Frisch had been in the hospital's intensive care until late last week, when he was moved to a private room. His condition continued to remain critical.

He is survived by his wife and a brother.

Born Sept. 9, 1898, Frisch was a product of the streets of New York City. He became famous as the "Fordham Flash" when he captained Fordham Universitys' football, baseball and basketball teams and, after being graduated, went directly to the Giants in 1919.

He was a star second and third baseman on the 1921-22-23-24 Giants, who set a National League record of four consecutive pennants. In succession, Frisch batted .341, .327, .348 and .328 in those seasons and he hit at least .300 in each of the four world series.

A 5-foot-10, 185-pound switch-hitter, Frisch compiled a .316 lifetime batting average in the major leagues and between 1921 and 1934 failed to hit .300 in only one season. A swift and aggressive base runner, Frisch led the league in stolen bases in 1921, 1927 and 1931.

Victorious

CHICAGO (AP) — Four West Coast players emerged victorious in the first round of championship play in the $25,000 Virginia Slims Tennis Tournament.

Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles beat Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, 4-6, 6-1 and 6-2 Thursday and Kristen Kemmer of Los Angeles downed the Netherlands' Betty Stove, 6-3, 1-6 and 6-3.

Janet Newberry of La Jolla, Calif., beat Brenda Kirk, South Africa, 6-3, 6-1 and Rosemary Casals, San Francisco, beat Laura DuPont, Charlotte, N.C., 6-3, 6-4.

Hartwick Senior Top Rebounder

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — Senior center Paul Chanko of Oxford, Conn., has broken the 8-year-old Hartwick seasonal rebounding record with a total of 362 snags, 19 more than Dan Parham's mark set in 1965-66.

Chanko averaged slightly more than 15 rebounds per game for 24 Warrior contests and had a high of 19 in one game.

Chanko stands 6-foot-5 and this season shot .550 over-all and 70 per cent from the free throw line.

Acker's, Hannay's YMCA Winners

Acker's Bar routed Ramsey's Chargers 91-51 to record its fifth win against three losses in the YMCA "A" Basketball League. Ramsey's dropped their seventh decision in eight games.

Hannay's Masonry trounced Snow-flake Ski Shop 72-49 to take over second place with a 6-5 record in the "B" League, as Snow-flake's dropped to third place.

Scott Miller rimmed 22 points and Ron Thomas added 21 for Acker's. Dave Whitaker potted 18 and Dave Kane and Jerry Hawkins had 15 apiece. Paul Schleede (15) and Art Clark (14) paced the losers.

Kevin Jones was the big gun for Hannay's with 27 and Don Hopper his 21. Tops for Snow-flake's were John Thomas with 16 and J. Ivanovich with 15. Jules Albertini added 14.

Your Horoscope

Tuesday, March 13

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now you have a beautiful day and evening to achieve a great deal that pleases you. Daytime favors the business world, personal relations, or outside activity, while the evening is fine for romance and the lighter side of life, such as entertaining, games, sports and other recreations.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan how to handle those business matters wisely so you add to present income, then invite congenials to a party in p.m. Make your home more attractive in some way. It may be too austere now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make those new arrangements during a.m. and improve routines and relationships with associates, but reserve the p.m. for hobbies you like. Communications are fine in the afternoon. Cut down on expenses.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Getting an early start on financial affairs is wise, then later you can delve into new outlets that could bring in added income. Set up a better budget. Improve your residence in some way tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Dress your best early so you can attend those social functions that please you. Meet interesting personalities and improve your social position. Avoid one who is incompetent in many ways.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can get an expert to give you the data you require just at this time, and use it for greater success. You have a recurring hunch that should be followed. This can be of great help to you at the right moment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day for gregariousness but make more of social opportunities that come your way. Drive, walk with care. Look to a good friend for ideas so you advance more wisely and quickly. Make plans for tomorrow in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get into the active world outside and be very productive where it means the most to you. Show your finest capabilities and gain the backing of influential persons. Avoid anything of a dangerous nature.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have not been able to get some new ideas rolling well, but now can do so and in a different fashion that will prove more successful. Those of different background from yours can be most helpful now. Think.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get busy with trading and government matters that have been impossible to handle before. Evening is best time to make those new arrangements with mate. Stay on the good and bright side of life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Sit down in a friendly fashion with an associate, whether personal or business, and make new arrangements that will prove more successful. Get into that civic work that brings you more goodwill and fame. Think logically.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have many tasks to perform and this can prove to be a day of real accomplishment. First coordinate your efforts better with fellow workers and avoid running into snags. Relax tonight as you see fit.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your happiness comes from being with those people you like, doing the things that please you, so get an early start on such. Get that talent working so you become more successful at it. Don't lose your temper with anyone.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY. . .he or she will be one of those dynamic and warm young people whose sense of the romantic is very pronounced who will attract the opposite sex very easily. Make sure you give good ethical training early and screen the playmates so your child does not go off the track, and then there can be much success and happiness in this chart, provided the apron-strings are cut at the right time. A good business head here with an original angle that brings much success.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largley up to YOU!

—Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

HOW? (Q) Please help me. Two years ago on vacation I met a wonderful girl. Since then we have been writing and sometimes calling. (She lives in Illinois, I live in Indiana.)

My question is how do I find out if she loves me? It isn't proper just to ask, is it? We are both 16.

IN LOVE IN INDIANA

(A) At the end of your next letter to her write, "I love you," and then your name.

If you really love her, this is completely fair. It tells her how you feel and it demands nothing in return, not even a yes or no.

But if she loves you, she is then free to tell you so.

A boy should not ask a girl, "Do you love me?" This forces her to take a stand she may not be ready to take.

* * *

SKIP: (Q) The other day my best friend wanted to skip school. He asked me and another guy to go with him. I never had before, but I did. I was scared and nervous all day and made up my mind right then I would never do it again.

But I didn't know until I got home how really bad it was. The school had called my mother and she had called everywhere to see if anyone knew where I was. One place she called was my girl friend's house. Well, my girl friend's dad heard about it and told her she could just forget me.

This is awful, becaue we love each other. I am 15 and she is 14. Do you know anything I can do?

NO MORE SKIPPING IN TEXAS

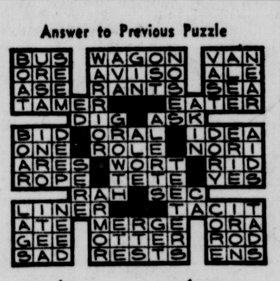

(A) You can go to your girl friend's parents and tell them the honest truth about how bad skipping school was, how you are not going to do it again, and how you hope they will forgive you and let you see their daughter again.

They may not forgive you right away, but I believe they will let her see you again after a week or two.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions or comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001).

'Making Good in America'

NEW YORK (AP) — Aldous Huxley once described the desire for success as a situation in which "the have-nots demand a place in the sun, or in more vulgar language, a share of the loot."

Other definitions are afoot these days, and for that reason you might want to take a look tonight at an ABC News special called "Making Good in America."

It's a relaxed, occasionally chilling look at how modern Americans view success — and what are their values, priorities and hopes for both now and the future.

It's a broad-based study, ranging from noisy hosannas to the dollar at one of Glenn Turner's "Dare to be Great" rallies to the quiet, noncompetitive life of a cooperative farm in California's San Joaquin Valley.

The one-hour show, narrated by Howard K. Smith, was written by James Fleming, whose four-hour "Africa" special in 1967 won an Emmy award and several other broadcast journalism honors

"Making Good" presents a host of viewpoints, including one on the role of the good corporate wife that may arouse a boo or two from women's lib advocates, not to mention some corporate wives.

It visits with the financially successful, those on the way up and those who turned their backs on the business world or plan to in favor of what some might call "voluntary poverty"—making do with a minimum of material goods.

The show also visits with those who are committed to helping the poor or troubled in society — either on a volunteer or a low-paid, full-time basis — and explores their reasons for doing so.

The beauty of "Making Good" is that it isn't your typical television collection of stark contrasts — crass commerce versus the saintly young. It shows the graduations that always have existed but are becoming more obvious in this decade.

It ends with a lot of philosophical blather about "the come by these days. And consideep conviction that 'making sidering the turbulence of the good in America' can also 1960s, the value of "Making mean 'making good for Amer- Good" is that it shows what ica.' " But what the heck. may be a profound beginning in Profound endings are hard to modern America.

Lots of Luck in Match Point

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "How about some articles on match point duplicate. We have been neglecting it for sometime."

Oswald: "As a starter there is a lot of luck in that game. You just can't win if your opponents don't help you out by making mistakes. In addition, there is a tremendous luck factor in your bidding. Here is a good example."

Jim: "North and South should be very proud of their bidding if the game were rubber bridge. They investigated slam possibilities and finally reached the one ironclad contract. The defenders helped themselves to the first two tricks and that was all."

Oswald: "Shift the East hand to the West and they would get a very good duplicate score also. A heart would be opened against three no-trump and any three no-trump bidder would be down one."

Jim: "With the cards as actually dealt, the South players who rebid three no-trump over three diamonds made all 13 tricks. West made his normal lead of the fourth best club and declarer collected two clubs, seven diamonds and four spades."

Oswald: "Lucky, but typical of match point play."

N. Viets List 107 POWs for Next Release

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam today delivered a list of 108 American prisoners it will release in Hanoi on Wednesday; meanwhile, the United States ag in suspended the withdrawal of American troops to insure the Communists release all 287 Americans they still hold.

The Viet Cong promised a list on Tuesday of approximately 30 prisoners of war captured in South Vietnam who will be released in Hanoi on Thursday.

The U.S. delegation radioed the list from the North Vietnamese to Washington for notification of the prisoners' families. The list was to be made public by the Defense Department later today.

Bui Tin, the chief North Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon, said all those to be released on Wednesday were airmen shot down in late 1967 and 1968. He said they included Lt. Cmdr. John S. McCain III, son of the former commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific.

Those to be released on Thursday are expected to include Maj. Floyd Thompson, the POW who has been held longest, and Philip Manhard, the highest-ranking civilian POW.

Those turnovers will constitute the third phase of the POW release, leaving one group of about 156 to be freed by March 28, two months after the Jan. 28 start of the cease-fire. March 28 also is the deadline for the withdrawal of all American and other foreign allied forces.

A U.S. spokesman said troop withdrawals were suspended to "make damn sure we get all of the prisoners." He said he foresaw no problem and noted that both North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have said they will comply with the agreement. But "we want to make absolutely certain," he added.

The spokesman said U.S. troop strength in Vietnam now totals 6,935 men, compared with 23,516 on Jan. 28. Foreign allied troops, primarily South Koreans, have dropped from 35,509 to 5,607.

"We've withdrawn our troops at a steady flow, and we haven't been getting a steady flow of prisoners," the spokesman added.

The Communists have released 299 Americans in three groups, on Feb. 12, Feb. 18 and March 4-5. This is a little more than half the 585 American prisoners they admitted holding.

The United States also suspended troop withdrawals on Feb. 28 when the Communists delayed release of American prisoners for five days in a dispute over other provisions of the cease-fire agreement.

Meanwhile, the Vietnamese-American Joint Military Commission sent to the International Commission of Control and Supervision a request today for an on-site investigation of Communist charges that South Vietnamese forces have been attacking Duc Pho. It is an exchange point for Vietnamese prisoners on the northern coast 100 miles south of Da Nang.

Two Gunmen Sought in Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) —Police sources said today they were convinced two gunmen were involved in the weekend assassinations of Gov. Sir Richard Sharples and an aide as they walked the governor's dog outside his official residence.

Officials also said they believed there was a direct link between the Saturday slayings and the unsolved shooting death almost exactly six months earlier of police commissioner George Duckett.

But police said they did not know of a motive for the killings and so far did not have any definite suspects.

Ian Kinner, the island's chief secretary, was sworn in as governor immediately after the killings. He immediately ordered a state of emergency, which permitted police to detain suspects without official charges or warrants.

Tourists were allowed to leave after they and their luggage were searched and inspected at the airport and at the docks.

Police said they were working on the theory there was special significance in the fact the two government officials were killed at almost the same hour, on a Saturday, six months apart.

Sharples' death came six months and one day after the murder of Duckett, shot Sept. 9 in the kitchen of his home. His 17-year-old daughter Marcia was shot and wounded in the assassination.

Sharples, 56, and his aide, Capt. Hugh Sayers, 25, were gunned down as they walked the governor's pet Great Dane at about 11:45 p.m. (10:45 p.m. EST) at the end of a dinner party for 12 persons. The dog also died in the bursts of gunfire.

Two Scotland Yard detectives assigned to the Duckett killing returned Sunday to Hamilton to investigate the slayings. Another team of seven detectives was en route today from London.

Police sources said late Sunday they were "convinced that two gunmen rather than one" were responsible for the Saturday slayings.

Police Commissioner L.M. Clark said there was no evidence to link the crime to political groups or racial tension. The island's 50,000 population is 63 per cent black.

Although Bermuda was the scene of 1968 racial disturbances when black youths went on a burning rampage through Hamilton, the island has been relatively free of the turbulent violence recurrent in some Carribbean islands.

Seeks Plan to Save Railroad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Railroad Administrator John Ingram has rejected a proposal that the government buy the right-of-way of the Penn Central and other bankrupt Eastern railroads.

Instead, Ingram said Congress should develop a "rational" plan to save the giant line. He indicated that such a plan should include abandonment of more than half the railroad and drastic labor and regulatory reforms.

Otherwise, Ingram said, the government will not attempt to prevent the Penn Central bankruptcy judge from liquidating the railroad next October. Ingram said in an interview that liquidation would be the "second best" solution because healthy railroads would buy profitable Penn Central lines and the unprofitable lines would be abandoned.

The Federal Railroad Administration must submit to Congress by March 26 its plan to preserve Eastern railroad service. Ingram said the plan definitely would not include nationalization or more federal money.

"We're either going to get a rational solution from Congress or we're going to have liquidation," Ingram said. "We're not going to have liquidation," Ingram said. "We're not going to have nationalization or any sort of long-term financial aid."

Asked whether he could accept a proposed plan to create a government authority to buy track and roadbed, Ingram said "Oh, absolutely not."

Sen. Vance Hartke's surface transportation subcommittee already is holding hearings on the railroad problem. The Northeast Transportation Authority proposed by Hartke and several other senators is the most prominently mentioned congressional answer to the problem. The authority would buy and refurbish essential lines, then allow railroads to use the federal tracks for a fee.

Ingram said a government authority would "open up more problems" such as the questions of whether other railroads would be allowed to use the track, and whether nearby solvent railroads would be able to compete with the refurbished government system.

Penn Central trustees have said they cannot save the railroad unless they are allowed to cut labor costs, be fully compensated for passenger service and abandon thousands of miles of line. They said the "optimum" abandonment would be 9,000 of their 20,0000 miles of track, but Ingram said that wasn't enough.

"I think they (the trustees) are a little light," he said. "You ought to scrap more than that."
